COIN MOTTOES.

Inscriptions That Were a Joy to the Cynics and Critics.

A collection of coin mottoes gathered by an Italian student, Amerigo Scarlatti, was published in Minerva, an Italian periodical. Scarlatti is of the opinion that such inscriptions, though not intended to be cynical, too often admit of such an interpretation through the irresistible habit of the public of ignoring the intention of the designer and applying the motto to the coin itself.

Thus when Charles II., king of the two Sicilies, had engraved on his silver ducat the Latin words "Unus non Sufficit," meaning "One is not enough," all the world insisted on forgetting that the king referred to a single scepter and enthusiastically agreed with him that one ducat wasn't enough for any one.

On the contrary, a storm of ironical opposition was aroused in the ducal court. The king of the ducal coins described in the Minerva was the ducal coin of the last century inscribed "Vi-dent Pauperes et Lactentur" on his coins. The words mean "Let the poor see and rejoice," and of course every one wanted to know why a poor man should rejoice at merely seeing a piece of money.

The papal coinage of 1573 bearing the arms of Gregory XIII. are the words "Et Super Hanc Petram" (And upon this rock). Of course the pope and the artist who designed the coin meant the words to refer to the papacy, but the evil minded applied them so maliciously to the coin itself that the issue was speedily stopped. A similar opportunity for evil tongues was afforded when the Knights of Malta coined an issue of dollars with the signatures of their order, the "IHS" and their motto, "In Hoc Signo Vincimus" (In this sign we combat). The ribald affected to take it as a confession that with their money was truly the slayer of war.

A Venetian lira dated 1474 has the somewhat ambiguous motto "In Tibi Solo Gloria" (To thee alone the glory). A seignior coined by Cardinal Escobar in 1744 bears the words "Vent Lumen Cordium," or "Come, thou light of hearts." Cleopatra XI. issued a coin with an image of the Madonna, with the legend "Causa Nostrae Lactitiae" (Cause of our joy), and a Venetian piece with an allegorical figure of Justice, with the words "Nostra in lae-citiae" (Our happiness in this). All of these inscriptions were irreverently diverted by contemporaries from their true object to the money itself.

TOMORROW'S BIRTHPLACE.

Line in the Pacific Where It Shakes Hans' With Yesterday.

Most people who have read Jules Verne's "Around the World in Eighty Days" will remember how narrowly the traveler missed his bet, having forgotten that in following the sun from east to west he had gained one day.

When one crosses the Atlantic from London to New York he gains rather more than half an hour each day.
From New York to Chicago another hour is gained, another to Denver, another to San Francisco, which is reckoning time eight hours later than London and of course the best part of a day later than Shanghai and Yokohama.

In crossing the Pacific there comes a time when the day begins, where yesterday and tomorrow shake hands and where the traveler is cheated out of a day in his life.

In mid-Pacific, going west, one gains from Sunday to Tuesday. Going east he has one day of the week repeated—two Sundays or Tuesdays, as the case may be.

The line of the changing day is not a straight one. The islands in the Pacific take their time from the continent with which they trade and from which they were discovered. Thus the line of the change zigzags down the Pacific from south to north, dodging between the islands.

Hence it might easily happen that a ship which has already skipped a day on its last round might skip a day to San Francisco time. In such a case it would be Monday on shore and Tuesday on the ship.

If the ship's jolly boat were lying at a wharf, it would be Monday on the wharf and Tuesday on the boat.

And if a person lives somewhere near the line he can get a sailboat and visit yesterday and tomorrow in the most delightful fashion.

Advances Thanks.

The phrase "Thanking you in anticipation" is now becoming common.
I think it is one of the meanest ever invented and one of the most insulting, for it implies that, however much pains the worker may take, he will get no thanks for it afterward. Why should he? He has been thanked already.
It further implies an imperious and insufferable demand which must and shall have immediate attention on pain of being considered no gentleman. Surely no one who really respects a correspondent ought to employ this taunting beggar's phrase.— Professor Skeat in London Academy.

Succeeded.

made a very satisfactory impression on Boren. Cleverly—I tried very hard to do so. Gaddie—Well, he told me you didn't impress him as a man he would care to associate with very much.
Cleverly—Fine. That's very satisfactory. It's the very impression I wanted to make.—Philadelphia Press.

AM in the Family.
Rector (short-sighted)—Well, Richard, what at work, eh? Let me see you like Richard, aren't you? Laborer—No, Sir, Oh, he John, Sir. Yes, and the pleasure of burying Richard has been a remembrance, Sir.—London Punch.

A STRENUOUS RULER.

Daring, Coolness and Bravery of James IV. of Scotland.

One of the interesting characters of history is James IV., king of Scotland from 1473 to 1513. He was athletic, courageous and fond of adventure. In putting down insurrections and improving the criminal administration of the country he was foremost in the ranks and did not shun a hand to hand contest. He married a daughter of Henry VII. of England and made a treaty which secured peace between the two countries. He labored to build up a navy and develop commerce and showed skillful diplomacy in dealing with other nations. He was killed in battle at Flodden, where his army was disastrously defeated by Henry VIII.

Those were strenuous times, when it was necessary for a king to be a fighter and to inspire his obsequious subjects with some degree of terror. King James used often to go about the country in different disguises, not only because he loved adventure, but because he could thus secure information on the state of the nation at first hand.

It is related of the vigorous Scottish king that once when wandering through the hills during the night he was overtaken by a violent storm and was obliged to take shelter in a cavern near Wemyss, which is one of the most remarkable antiquities of Scotland. Having advanced some way in, the king discovered a number of men and women ready to begin to roast a sheep for supper. From their appearance he suspected that he had fallen into evil company, but as it was then too late he asked hospitality from them till the tempest was over. They granted it and invited the king, who was unknown to them, to sit down and join them at supper. They were a notorious band of robbers and cutthroats, and this fact soon dawned upon James.

As soon as they had finished their supper one of them presented a plate on which two daggers were laid in the form of a St. Andrew's cross, telling the king that this was the desert they always served to strangers; that he must choose one of the daggers and fight him whom the company selected as his antagonist. The king, realizing that he was to be murdered, instantly seized both daggers, one in each hand, and plunged them into the hearts of the two robbers nearest to him. He then dashed out of the cave and made his escape, returning as soon as possible with a body of soldiers, by whom the whole band was arrested and publicly hanged.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

A BRAHMS ANECDOTE.

The Man Who Spoiled an Evening For the Great Composer.

Among the Brahms anecdotes which are popular in Germany this one was contributed by Frau Luise Pohl.
Brahms liked Baden-Paden and took as much pleasure in a winter visit to the place as in the crowded summer time.
The residents knew this when they invited him in 1876 to come and direct some of his works. After the concert the friends of the master assembled at Goldemans Kranz by invitation of the oberbürgermeister ganner to "drink a glass of wine." The session lasted long, but gradually the company grew smaller. Presently they had all gone, except Brahms and Cornelius Rubner. After awhile even Rubner suggested home, and his young companion eagerly agreed to adjourn the session. On the way home Brahms asked his companion, whose name he had not heard, "By the way, do you know this young director Rubner?"

"Are you interested in him?" he asked by way of answer.

"Certainly. Adolf Jensen thinks he is not only great, but genial. Don't you know him?"

"I know him very well. He is an arrogant, conceited fellow, who can do nothing and knows nothing." The pleasure of the evening was spoiled by this harsh opinion as to a man whom Brahms had made up his mind to like. The next morning he attended, with some others, a breakfast at Jensen's, where he told the story.
He had hardly finished when the door opened and Rubner walked in.

"That's the man who slandered your friend," said Brahms, and when everybody laughed he suspected what was told to him as soon as the first man recovered.

Using the Fire Buckets.

In many business offices fire buckets are placed, filled with water, in readiness for an emergency. It is seldom that the Scientific American, that instructions for use are placed near the supply. The wrong way to tackle an incipient fire is (usually) to hurl the whole contents of a bucket on the spot.
Most of the water is wasted by this means. A heavy sprinkling is more effective. The water may be splashed on the blaze by hand, but a more useful sprinkler is a long haired whitewash brush. One of these should hang beside every nest of fire buckets.

A Doubtful Assertion.

Brown—They say that drowning men catch at straws.
Towns—Yes, but I doubt it. I've seen a number of men drown, and those of them who had any preference at all seemed in favor of a plank. In fact, I do not now recall ever having been asked for a straw by a gentleman who was drowning.—New York Journal.

Extravagant.

Kind Lady—If I give you this penny what will you do with it? Beggar—Hire a motor cab and show me friend Rigsby the town, ma'am. Illustrated Bible.

Conceit may puff a man up, but never propels him up.—Railroad.

AN ILL FATED SHIP.

Mystery and Tragedy That Encompassed the Great Eastern.

There was a mystery about that ill fated ship. Nothing went right with her. She struck at the launch, and it cost an extra $350,000 over and above the sum set aside for the purpose to get her into the water. On her trial trip her boilers burst, killing some of the stokers. Then she ran aground and carried on so outrageously that her crew thought her surely bewitched.
She had started badly. While she was building a pay clerk sent by one of the contractors with $8,500 in wages for the men disappeared. It was not unusually assumed that he had bolted with the money. His wife and family were left unprotected for, with the stigma of his supposed crime upon them.

Thirty years after her launch the Great Eastern went into the cemetery at Birkenhead to be broken up. While she was being taken to pieces the ship breakers discovered between her inner and outer casings of steel the skeleton of a man. Papers which had fallen from his clothes enabled his identity to be traced. It was the skeleton of the pay clerk who thirty years before had disappeared. There was no money, that was never recovered.

The supposition is that the poor fellow on going on to the ship was pondered upon by workmen who knew that he had the money with him; that they stunned him and, having a small place in the side of the vessel to complete, crammed his body in and built him up in it. No reward would have induced a sailor to sail in that vessel had he known of the terrible secret sealed up in her walls.—Chicago News.

LAFCADIO HEARN.

The Way the Writer Got Even With the Heartless Editors.

"Lafcadio Hearn, that wonderful writer, worked on newspapers in his youth," said a publisher, "and the ruthless way his studies were changed, cut and butchered was a great woe to his heart."

"In after years Hearn took a mail-ous joy in collecting stories about editors, editors and the superior and omniscient way with manuscript.
"One of his stories was of an editor to whom a subscriber said:
"I enjoyed that poem on the three ages of man in today's paper, Mr.
Sheers; I enjoyed it immensely. Do you know, though, I thought that it was originally written the seven ages of man?"

"As it was, sir; so it was," said Editor Sheers, pompously. "The extract was originally written the seven ages of man, but I had to cut it down for lack of space."

"Another story concerned a weather report. A reporter, discussing the weather, wrote that winter still lingered in the lap of spring."

"The editor as he read over the article called the reporter up to his desk and told him that he would cut out that sentence about winter lingering in spring's lap. He said the idea was good enough and original and all that sort of thing, but it would not do to publish because the high moral tone of the paper had to be maintained in a town full of school girls."

Staring at Royalty.

Royalties are early cured of any shyness of being looked at. They are there to be seen and both the king and queen when they go to the opera and turn their glasses on the occupants of opposite boxes are openly amused by the disconcerted looks of persons who feel abashed under the inspection.
Not a trace of self-consciousness is left on the face of an English royalty, with the exception of perhaps a single princess under an artillery of glances.
Such attentions are amusing but resented. Indeed, the beautiful Duchess of Devonshire used to say that when the butcher boy, ceased to turn round after her in the street she would know her reign was over.—London Chronicle.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you?
Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine.
Dr. Pierce believes that he has a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies his statements. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied with a debilitating, debilitating, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy.
It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus insuring childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular.
It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet, extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V.
Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

Care of Our Forests.

With all the vigilance and precaution of lovers of our forests we still have disastrous fires and this season we are getting an early demonstration of what carelessness will do. The public must be disciplined like a child when it comes to the realization of this responsibility in this direction, for heretofore the woods and hills have spelled nothing. Their beauties seemed so plentiful, so enduring, that we became careless of them.

But with every year and repeated devastation by fierce forest fires it becomes more apparent that we must exercise stringent measures to protect our hills and canyons. Such destruction as is wrought by flames is due mostly to carelessness but is no less excusable than the deliberate destruction of some of our noted trees. Each "alien of the wild" should feel when he enters the forest that he cannot be too careful. When this feeling is substituted for "do as you please" there will be less destruction. Fire wardens and other precautionary modes of protection are helpful but the public must be disciplined above all, for "what a noble gift to man are the forests."

A Wine Victory

SONOMA VALLEY vineyardists will rejoice at Sharboro's success in having wine exempt in the new law prohibiting liquor from being passed from a free to a prohibition State. It was in the interest of California's wine industry that the Italian-Swiss colony man went to Washington and there he succeeded in his arguments favorable to wine and the committee voted to consider it as a non-intoxicating beverage therefore not affected by the new enactment. The new law as it stood would have struck a hard blow at all California vineyardists and would have been felt particularly in this county. After repeated observations we Californians may smile at the new status of wine (non-intoxicant), but we are sincere in our belief that with the increased consumption of wine drunkenness on the whole decreases and better conditions prevail. California can help temperance out just that much without it being at all detrimental to her interests.

A Little Problem

THERE is a unit in society at stake, a life handicapped most seriously at the outset, a case for unique observation, in that of a child who accompanies its mother to prison—a mother sentenced to life imprisonment in the State of Nevada. Her child is to comfort her outside that pale of society. Into the atmosphere of the transgressor and the social misfit this child is to struggle and be nurtured and then expected to take her place in the world and compete with the well raised, the fairly started. There are those who believe that whenever the influences and care of a mother are possible, even if that mother in other capacity fails as a unit in society, they should be given to the young rather than the artificial and perhaps more theoretically perfect influences from the outside.

Here is a case where we speculate on the advisability of allowing this tender plant to grow in the shadows with the mother tree. Would it not be better to take the seedling away to the sunlight rather than to chance a rank growth? Heredity is enough against it. Why should we who have the power to provide favorable environment not do our duty. Sentiment dictates the other course, reason the latter. Yet after all, mother love is the same the world over and to the tenderly young perhaps nature's demands are the highest.

Though the mother is in exile her instincts are those of all mothers, her love as warm, and the highest within her is undoubtedly brought out by her offspring. Until the child is old enough to notice other influences about her it will probably be as well if not better started here than in some institution, many of which are little better than prisons themselves. There is a reason rather than a sentiment in such a deduction.

If the prohibition vote keeps up its present rate of progress the bureau for the reclamation of arid lands will have to be enlarged—Chicago Tribune.

Among the most ardent tariff reformers are the people who pay duty on poor cigars sent to them by well-meaning friends.—Washington Star.

It is thought, however, that Governor Hughes' whiskers would run well in Kansas.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Grippe or Influenza, whichever you like to call it, is one of the most weakening diseases known.

Scott's Emulsion, which is Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in easily digested form, is the greatest strength-builder known to medical science.

It is so easily digested that it sinks into the system, making new blood and new fat, and strengthening nerves and muscles.

Now is the time to lay concrete sidewalks. See Trudgen, the stone mason, about it.

The Sonoma Valley high school students have just finished one of their quarterly examinations.

The corner stone of Sonoma county's new and magnificent Court House will be laid with imposing ceremonies on Thursday, April 7th.

Mrs. Heggie and the Misses Aguilon are remodeling their frame building facing the Plaza on the west side of the same for hotel purposes.

Al Neill defeated Jim Hornbuckle before the Sonoma Athletic Club in Santa Rosa last Wednesday night. Hornbuckle was all but out in the twentieth round and his seconds threw up the sponge.

Mrs. Jennie T. Nichols, Superintendent of the Children's Rescue Work of Oakland, has taken charge of the four Mullien children whose father and mother were sent to the insane from Petaluma last week.

A. C. Lutzen, architect of Sonoma's new City Hall, was in town Sunday from San Francisco. He expressed himself well pleased with the building, which will be soon turned over to the city by Contractor McManis.

The warm weather of the past ten days has embowered the Sonoma Valley in fruit blossoms. Two colors predominate, pink and white, representing the bloom of the peach and the blossoms of the prune, pear and apple. The outlook for fruit in the valley is splendid.

The thermometer has registered between eighty and ninety degrees several days this week. This is the warmest spell ever experienced in this valley in March. There was a sudden change in the temperature Thursday morning when there was a slight frost, which did no damage, however.

Dr. Schnitz will not, as announced in these columns last week, have his offices in the Clerici cottage on Napa street. He had planned to establish his offices first and then have his family come here later, but selling his San Francisco property makes it necessary to have his family locate here at the same time he does. He has accordingly rented the Dal Poggetto cottage on Second-street East, where he will have both his home and offices.

The attention of our readers is called to the new advertisement of Messrs. Bianchini & Guffanti, proprietors of the Lombardo Hotel, located on First-street East one-half block from the railway depot. They have made many improvements to their hotel and have enlarged its capacity for accommodating summer boarders by building a substantial stone addition to the same. Italian cooking is one of the features of this resort and a fine stock of wines, liquors and cigars will be found at the bar.

Believing that in the direction of Public School affairs, just as in the home life, the care and influence of woman is needed equally with that of man, I hereby ask the voters of this district to elect me, at the coming school election, a Trustee of Sonoma Grammar School, promising that if elected I will do my utmost to further the educational interests of our community.

Yours truly,
Mrs. F. T. Duhring.

Basket Ball.

The game of basket-ball played here last Saturday afternoon between the high school boys of Napa and Sonoma was won by the latter. The score was 20 to 24 in favor of the Sonoma team.

The game was very interesting and was witnessed by a large crowd of people. About twenty high school boys came over from Napa to witness the game.

At the end of the first half of the game the score stood 11 to 5 in favor of the Sonoma boys, who excelled in team work. Logan and Poppe did good work for the locals and Leonard, Gunn and Boyd played well for Napa. Raymond Gunn of Napa refereed the game and Mr. Turner of Napa umpired. Napa used two substitutes.

The teams lined up as follows: Napa—Leonard and Butler, goalers; Wilson and Scribner, centers; Boyd, Gunn and Eby, guards.

Sonoma—Logan and Trowbridge, goalers; J. Dresel, center; Poppe and O. Dresel, guards.

More Improvements at Agua Caliente.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodor Richards, the up-to-date and progressive owners of the Agua Caliente Springs Hotel, are having installed this week two electric baths for the use of their guests. In addition to the many improvements made from time to time at this famous resort Mr. Richards is spending thousands of dollars every year in advertising its many attractions and today it is known all over the United States from Maine to Florida.

Sonoma Asparagus.

The experiment of planting asparagus on the Pacific Reclamation Company's ranch on the reclaimed marsh lands bordering Sonoma creek south of town has proved a wonderful success. About twenty acres were experimented with and the results have proved surprising. Daily shipments of the product are being made to San Francisco and the crop is proving a profitable one.

Nothing in the Charge.

The case against Mr. and Mrs. McDonough of El Verano, who were arrested one day last week on complaint of George Diebold, who charged them with threatening his life, has been dismissed by Judge Atchinson of Santa Rosa. Not an iota of evidence was introduced by Diebold to substantiate his wild charge, hence when the case was called the accused were promptly discharged.

To the Public.

Believing that in the direction of Public School affairs, just as in the home life, the care and influence of woman is needed equally with that of man, I hereby ask the voters of this district to elect me, at the coming school election, a Trustee of Sonoma Grammar School, promising that if elected I will do my utmost to further the educational interests of our community.

Celebrated Her Seventy-Ninth Birthday.

Mrs. Catherine Poppe, Sonoma's oldest pioneer resident, celebrated her seventy-ninth birthday last Wednesday at her home in this place. All her children were present as were also a large number of grandchildren. Mrs. Poppe has conducted a general merchandise business in this place for half a century. Her children are Robt. A. Poppe, Chas. J. Poppe, Julius E. Poppe, Mrs. Joe B. Small and Mrs. Kate Buchan, all of whom reside in this valley.

Treachorous Memory.

Mrs. Robert Hodges of Glen Ellen, has a treacherous memory. The other day she put away a sack containing some $600 worth of jewelry and other valuables, and forgot all about it. A hue and cry was raised as it was feared that a thief had carried off the trinkets. A reward was offered and the officers were notified and commenced a search for the missing articles. Then Mrs. Hodges unexpectedly came across them in the place where she had hidden them for safety herself.

Purchased New Runabout.

Dr. Frederick Leix has purchased a brand new auto car runabout which he will use in making suburban and out-of-town professional calls. Since locating here a little over a year ago the Drs. Leix have built up a splendid practice and as this practice extends all over the valley the doctor found it necessary to use something more speedy than equine locomotion to attend all his patients, hence his purchase of the runabout.

Apportionment of School Money.

State school money has been apportioned by County Superintendent of Schools Montgomery to the various district schools in this valley as follows:

Dunbar, $150; El Verano, $508.20; Enterprise, $131.40; Flowery, $150.60; Glen Ellen, $291.40; Hotchkiss, $133.80; Sonoma, $1081.60; Watsnough, $136.60; San Luis, $201.00.

The Bassi Estate.

Joseph Maggini has petitioned the Superior Court for letters of administration on the estate of the late Antonio Bassi, who "dropped dead one day last week at his home in El Verano. The estate, which consists of a house and two lots in the above place, is valued at $1300. John J. Mazza is the attorney for the estate.

Death of E. L. McGarity.

Edward L. McGarity, who has been sojourning in this valley for the benefit of his health for over a year, died in El Verano last Sunday. The deceased was born in Lewinville, Fairfax county, Va., where his aged mother still resides. He was aged about 45 years. The remains were brought to this place and interred in Valley Cemetery Tuesday.

Farmers Want Rain.

The farmers need rain now and say they need it badly, but as Sonoma valley has yet to suffer seriously from a dry spell it is certain this year will prove no exception to previous years. The spring showers are almost a dead certainty in this valley and we predict the usual rainfall here during April and May.

DATES AND FIGS.

Frugal Fare of the Desert Wanderers

While journeying across the desert Mrs. A. Goodrich-Frost, author of "In a Syrian Saddle," met a lonely traveler bound for Mebela. On hearing that the caravan was bound for the same place he asked permission to join them. Incidentally he furnished an illustration of the difference between necessities and luxuries.

We were very grateful, says the writer, for coffee and an excellent lunch of sausage, bottled meat and jam, with white bread, brought from Jerusalem. We ate our dainties with some sense of guilt, as the newcomer produced his lunch of dates and figs.

Dates and figs, he informed us, were the natural food of desert wanderers, sufficing to the body, stimulating to the mind. The wheat, the flesh, above all the alcohol of civilization, were mere luxuries.

Was it not a diet of figs and dates that he had ridden sixty hours without dismounting? Was it your meat, your wine drinker, who remained round and wholesome when necessity obliged him to refrain from abstinence for twenty-one days?

At this point he carefully counted his date stones, observed that two more were yet due to his appetite and finished his frugal luncheon.

ONLY A TRAMP.

Raising the Curtain For a Moment on One of Life's Tragedies

A recent incident which holds in its simple outline the possibility of great tragedy is described in the New York Times. It is another illustration of how careless the world is of the individual and how thick is the cloak which one may wrap about his personality. Not long ago a laborer employed by the Erie railroad in Jersey City was run over by a train and had his leg cut off.

A policeman telephoned for an ambulance. The injured man lay on a grass patch, apparently bleeding to death. Just then a typical railroad tramp in dirty rags sauntered along. He tapped a policeman's elbow.

"May I ask what's the matter, officer?" he inquired.

"Man bleeding to death," replied the policeman.

"Would you mind if I looked at him?" asked the tramp. "I might be of service."

"Go ahead," responded the officer.

Bending low over the wounded laborer, the tramp asked for water to wash his hands and then begged the crowd for clean handkerchiefs. With a half dozen deft, rapid twists he made a tourniquet and stopped the flow of blood.

"Are you a doctor?" some one asked as the man slipped away through the crowd.

"I used to be," he replied as he hurried off.

Patriotism in the Making.

Patriotism in New York is cosmopolitan. They have a flag drill in the schools in which the children of every race and clime, as the hymn book says, are taught to salute the stars and stripes and give "their heads, their hands and their hearts to their country." And in some of the big downtown schools you may see children from homes German, Italian, Syrian, Scandinavian, Jewish, Hungarian, Chinese, Armenian, Greek and heaven knows how many other nationalities all joining in this picturesque ceremony. It gives one a realizing sense of the variety of material which it put into this crucible we call a city and which in another generation or two will be simply American.—Boston Transcript.

Talking Through the Nose.

So called "talking through the nose" is not talking through the nose at all, but rather failure to do so—that is, instead of letting the tone flood into the nasal cavity, to be re-enforced there by striking against the walls of the cavity, which act as sounding boards for the tone confined within that cavity, we shut off the cavity and refuse the tone its natural re-enforcement. It takes on as a result a thin, unresonant quality which we call nasal, although it is thin and unpleasant because it lacks true nasal resonance. The only remedy lies in ceasing to shut off the cavity.—Katherine Jewell Everts in Harper's Bazar.

Frog's Narrow Escape.

A correspondent writes: "My son, aged ten and a half years, was working in the garden when a viper about two feet long glided past him. A good shot with a stone about the size of a cricket ball broke the reptile's spine, while a sharp edge of the granite cut open the belly, thereby restoring to freedom a frog which hopped out of its prison unhurt."—Madras Mail.

Cooking.

"Did you think Miss Jawkins was speaking eyes?"

"I'm sure I don't know," replied the young lady. "If she had, her mouth wouldn't give them a chance to be heard."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Young Baby.

From a morning paper: "Nurse wanted to look after young baby, age about eighteen." We do not know much about the subject, but is that particularly young for a baby?—London Globe.

DRYING THIN GLASSES.

A Dealer Tells Why the Maid Breaks Them So Often.

"Our maid certainly worked destruction on those sherry glasses," said the delicate little glasses," said the customer to the dealer. "There were six, and she broke three inside of three months."

"Oh, you got off easy, judging from the stories that come to us," replied the store man.

"Well, I see how it is," responded the customer. "I tried wiping a few of these glasses myself the other night, and the first thing I knew I wiped the side right out of one. As the maids say, 'Why, they break right in the towel!'"

"Now, if you would wait until they were nearly dry," remarked the dealer, "you'd never break any at all. Take this cordial glass with the very thin stem. You naturally seize it by the foot and turn it while you wipe the bowl with the other hand. While the glass is wet the dish towel, gripped between two fingers, holds the bowl like a vise, and you just naturally twist the stem in two. But if you let the glass get nearly dry the towel slips, and the danger is over."

"Doesn't that make streaked glasses?"

"No, not if the water and towels are clean. Of course you ought to have towels that you use only for glassware. Towels that have been used on dishes are likely to have grease on them, and grease is the great enemy of brilliancy in glassware."

"Then can soap be used in the water?"

"Oh, yes. We use pure white soap with ours. The main point is to have the water hot enough. That helps with the drying, too, because when you take a glass out of very hot water and set it aside to drain it will dry itself before you can take a towel to it. This soap is good as a polisher because usually it has never touched grease. Alcohol has a reputation as a polisher, but its function is rather to clean. Cut up potatoes are good to shake up the insides of pitchers and carafes."—New York Post.

Child's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

Mrs. John Englehardt of Gera, Mich., tells of the anxious moments spent over her little two-year-old daughter who had taken a hard cold resulting in croup. She says: "I am satisfied that if it had not been for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy she would have choked to death. I gave this medicine every ten minutes and she began to throw up the phlegm. I can recommend it in the highest terms as I have another child that was cured in the same way." Sold by L. S. Simmons.
